Content

Preface 5

Introduction 9

1. AIMS AND APPROACH

1.1. Introduction to the Process Theological Authors 15

1.2. Problems of Modern Philosophy: Towards a Process Theological Terminology 17
1.2.1. Actual Entities 20
1.2.2. Prehension 22
1.2.3. Concrescence 23
1.2.4. Dipolarity 24

1.3. The Key Categories 27
1.3.1. Creativity 27
1.3.2. Freedom 32

2. INTELLECTUAL CONTEXT

2.1. Biographical Notes 39

2.2. Material 43

2.3. Intellectual Opponents in the Principles 46

2.4. Summary of the Principles 50

2.5. Overlapping Frameworks 54
2.5.1. The Baroque Framework 55
2.5.2. The Platonic-Origenian Framework 59
2.5.3. The Quaking Framework 69

2.6. Conway's Method in the Principles 75

3. GOD AND THE WORLD

3.1. Conway's Ontology of Substance 84
3.1.1. God 92
3.1.2. Christ 100
3.1.3. Creation 115

3.2. Changing the Perspective: from Being to Becoming 131
3.2.1. Creativity 136
3.2.2. Freedom 147

4. SPIRIT AND BODY

4.1. Conway's Critique of Dualism 161
4.1.1. Infinite Divisibility as Undermining the Foundation of Dualism .. 163
4.1.2. The Problem of Interaction 167

4.2. Conway's Spiritual Monism: Moving Towards Process Theology 171
4.2.1. Spirit 174
4.2.2. Matter 177
4.2.3. Conway's Six Arguments for Spiritual Monism 181

4.3. The Question of Identity: between Freedom and Creativity 193
4.3.1. The Monad 196
4.3.2. The Creation of a Self 204
4.3.3. Differences 219

4.4. … and the Word Became Flesh 225
4.4.1. Deep Incarnation 231
4.4.2. Evil Motion? 236
4.4.3. Conviviality 240

Conclusion 247

Bibliography 251

Indexes
Origen 261
Names 261
Subjects 263